Despite the efforts of onlookers and the police and fire department, the bodies were not recovered until the following day.

NOTHING ORGANICALLY WRONG SAYS PRESIDENT OF CANADIAN NATIONAL

Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, who is on his annual trip of inspection in Western Canada, comments on business conditions as follows:

"We can't expect the sun to shine all the time; there are bound to be showers. But so many people are mistaking a shower for a cyclone."

"We have got to look below the surface and see if there is anything wrong with our fundamentals. If diagnose the position of the country organically, so to speak, you will find that we have the same courageous and intelligent population we had a year ago."

"That tells us that we have no disease, or as the doctors would diagnose it, we have nothing organically wrong and we are merely passing through a headache or a cold."

"We could not have had the stock market losses of the crash last year in New York, which carried down all the markets in the world, without these losses finding expression in resumed purchasing power of the people in all lines."

Things will probably mark time for a certain period until the public recovers its purchasing power. If we have a good crop on the Canadian Prairies this year we will be well on our way upward next year."

Liberals Hold Meeting Here

A fairly well attended meeting was held on Monday evening in the Second Ward Chapel when the Liberal candidate, A. G. Baalim, and other speakers were present. L. L. Pack acted as Chairman of the meeting.

S. J. Shepherd the first speaker, voiced his pleasure at being able to come to Raymond, and spoke of the improvements that are being, and have been made here recently. Characterized A. G. Baalim as a live wire and said this was the kind of a man we needed at Ottawa. Trade was the big issue of the present campaign, our wheat market is in the British Isles and the Orient, and the Dunning budget was a effort to better these markets.

H. C. Singer spoke next stating that the law of supply and demand governed prices. Characterized Bennett as a modern Moses, with nothing but promises to offer. He spoke of the Australian treaty and its effect, and read statistics from the Canada Year Book to prove Canada's prosperity.

Senator W. A. Buchanan was the principal speaker of the evening, and after voicing his pleasant surprise at the growth of Raymond and the faith of the people in their town, he referred to the three candidates in the field for election and said he had nothing but the highest regards for all of them. He fully expected the King government to be returned to power and spoke of the splendid record the present administration had made, despite the fact that the strenuous work of re-adjustment following the war had fallen upon them.

The unity of the Dominion was a paramount need, and this had been regained and strengthened by the MacKenzie King government. Speaking of the tariff, he said that tariff reductions had been granted on those implements and machinery essential to the development of Natural Resources and on all agricultural implements and automobiles. A moderate tariff was essential, but a very high tariff would be detrimental to Canada. The return of the Natural Resources to the consolidation of and present successful operation of the C.N.C., the British Preference and its direct results in both Canada and continental Europe, were all dealt with clearly and concisely by the speaker. In the present government agriculture was certainly well represented, there being 5 cabinet ministers who are actual farmers. Speaking of unemployment, the speaker said the machine age was largely responsible for this and it would take time to find a solution to this vital problem.

L. E. Fairbairn, in a brief speech, traced the work of the present administration and work as regards the Returned Soldiers, and proved by figures that Soldiers and their dependents had a very sympathetic and generous protector in Premier King.

A. G. Baalim was then introduced and due to lateness of the hour did not enter into any lengthy discussion of election issues. He spoke of the enterprises in which he had helped, and said his only thought was that if elected he would devote his very best effort to serving the district.

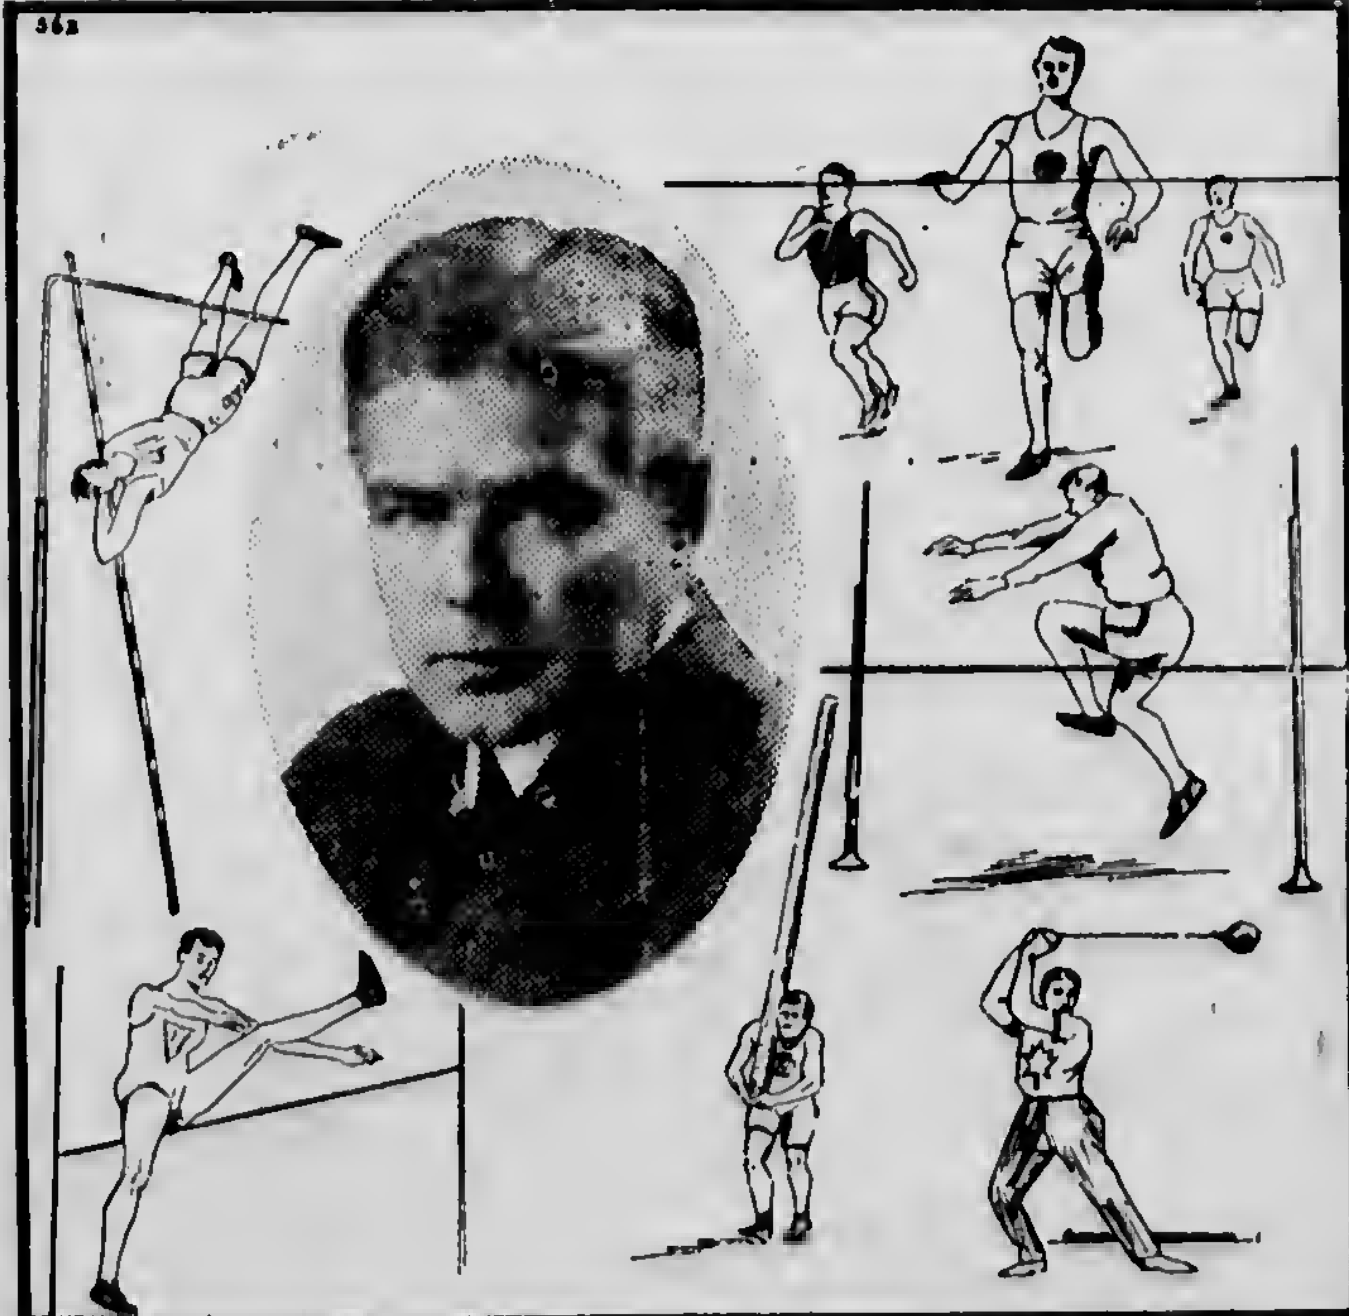

The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

WILD ROSE IS NOW ALBERTA'S FLORAL ENBLEM

From Dominion Day of this year the wild rose will be the recognized official flower of the province of Alberta. The act was passed at the last session of the legislature, and the date was then named.

Selection of the typical western blossom will meet with general approval throughout the province. There is not a portion of Alberta where the wild rose is not found and there is a rugged hardness to the bush and a sweetness to the bloom which makes its selection as the official flower most appropriate.

Empire Games at Hamilton

Hamilton, Ontario, will be the centre next month of the British Empire Games to which athletes from all the Dominions and the Mother Country will flock. E. W. Bentley, chairman and president, Canadian Pacific Railway, is chairman of the national committee of the A. A. U. of Canada for the Games, and promises of support have been received by the committee from Australia, New Zealand, Africa, British Crown Colonies, the Irish Free State, Northern Ireland, while a strong and representative British committee has been formed to ensure full British participation at this notable sports gathering of the British peoples. Canada will, of course, be very fully represented, practically every province sending its outstanding athletes. The Games are scheduled to be held August 16-23.

Cardston came to Raymond Wednesday to take home the Insurance Agencies Trophy Cup and get revenge for last week's victory over them by Raymond, and they did both with a vengeance.

Their big sticks proved too much for the local nine, and they cavorted around the bases for nine runs, the locals saving a shutout by getting one run, or around the sacks in the eighth. The diamond was in perfect shape and the weather man was behaving in a 1 fashion and the crowd was interested in parts of the game.

Cahoon went on the mound for Cardston, and K. Allred for Raymond shared equal honors in strikeouts getting eight each, but Cardston fared better in the hitting, putting the horseshoe just where no one could field it and polling out 9 safeties against 3 made by Raymond.

While Cardston played air-tight ball, being charged with only one error, Raymond was charged with 7, and in several places by making the wrong play and not moving fast enough chances of putouts were passed up and batters advanced on bases.

Last week's battle record was just about reversed. Allred had 33 batters face him last week and Cardston's pitchers had 41. This week Allred had 45 and Cahoon 33, which all goes to show that you never know which way the wind will blow in a baseball game.

Orill and Cadwell handled the indicators.

Score by innings R. H. E.
Cardston 202 000 203 8-9 1
Raymond 000 000 010 1-3 7

The lineup was as follows:—

Cardston:—Long, 3b; Brooks, ss; Cahoon, p; McKenzie, c; Newbar, cf; Parker, 2b; Hansen, 1b; M. Hansen, lf; H. Powell, rf.

Raymond:—McLean, 3b; Nalder, 2b; Humphreys, rf; Henry, lf; Allred, p; Hicken, c; Kirkham, cf; Hawkins, ss; Fairbanks, 1b.

Oh well, why worry. It only means another trip to Cards. on to bring the cup home.

A total of over 400 known dead and 500 missing, was the toll of a terrific storm over Japan and Korea on Monday. Damage is estimated at millions of dollars.

IS there any Hope for 1931?

The only hope of growing crops successfully over the outbreak area in 1931, if the foregoing recommendations are not followed depends entirely on the spring rainfall. Wet season during next May and June with frequent heavy rains may reduce the amount of damage. When the soil is wet the pale western cutworm does no feed as heavily or destroy as many plants as it does when the soil is dry.

More detailed information can be secured by writing to the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Lethbridge, Alberta, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Indian Head, Saskatchewan, or Treesbank, Manitoba.

CUTWORMS SURE TO BE VERY BAD NEXT YEAR—WHAT TO DO THIS FALL

Farmers during the present season who have suffered more or less severely from cut worm damage will be pleased to know that government officials who have been carefully studying the question are now in a position to make their recommendations as to how next year's losses can be reduced.

H. L. Seamans, who is in charge of the federal entomological laboratory at Lethbridge, has issued the following:

WARNING ON THE PALE WESTERN CUTWORM

The pale western cutworm is one of the worst insect pests with which the farmers of Alberta and Saskatchewan have to contend. Its presence in a field in the spring depends entirely on the condition of that field during August and early September of the previous season. For this reason, this warning is issued so that farmers in these two provinces may prepare their fields this summer to avoid trouble next spring.

The weather conditions during the early season of 1930 have been such as to practically insure an enormous increase of the pale western cutworms over a large area in both Alberta and Saskatchewan. In fact, it appears now as though these provinces would have the most widespread and devastating outbreak of this insect that has ever occurred.

Location of the Outbreak

The outbreak will be most severe in Alberta from Edmonton south to the Lethbridge-Medicine Hat line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and east of the McLeod Edmonton line. There will undoubtedly be some increase south of Lethbridge and Medicine Hat and farmers in that area will do well to handle their fields accordingly.

In Saskatchewan, the outbreak will probably be quite general from Saskatoon south to the border. The most severe damage will probably occur in a 100 mile radius of Regina. The isolated local outbreak which occurred in 1930 over the rest of Saskatchewan west of a north and south line through Indian Head and Abernethy will probably increase in intensity and spread in all directions so as to make a general outbreak with severe conditions scattered through it.

What Should be Done?

Wherever possible, farmers are urged to keep entirely off their fields from the first of August until the middle of September. Summerfallow should be well worked during July so that all weed growth is destroyed and then left untouched.

No stock should be allowed to run on the land and no machinery taken across it.

The adult moths of the pale western cutworm lay their eggs during August and early September. The eggs are always laid in soft dusty soil and any fields which have the soil surface slightly crusted will be largely avoided by the moths. In most soils a light rain is sufficient to form this protective crust and if the last cultivation is followed by such a rain, the crust that is formed should not be broken in any way.

Fields which are in crop that must be harvested during August will have the surface crust destroyed by these operations and the cutworms will be present there next spring. If the crop is such that it can be left until the middle of September or can be cut and stacked before the first of August nothing should be allowed to disturb the soil crust between those dates.

The entire problem during a pale western cutworm outbreak can be simply expressed as follows:

1. Any field in which the soil surface is crusted and undisturbed from the first of August to the middle of September will be reasonably free of cutworms the following spring.

2. Any field in which the soil surface crust is broken or disturbed between the first of August and middle of September will be reasonably expected to be infested with cutworms the following spring. If such fields are seeded, the crop will probably be destroyed.

ARE YOU GOING TO VOTE

Monday is Voting Day, the day when Canada by the use of the cross on the ballot, will show what party they choose to have in power. The campaign is practically over and the contestants await with fear and trembling the edict of that vast army of important and responsible individuals "Canada's Voters."

The usual gamut of election talk has had its run, and promises galore have been made, some of which are as impossible of fulfillment as any statement could be. That we are gullible and easily fooled we will admit without argument, but if some speakers really expect their promises to be taken at par, they do not give us credit for even "good horse sense."

So much for that. The question is, what story will the votes tell on Tuesday? How many will make the effort to exercise their right to vote. It is serious business, and at times somewhat ridiculous to see the attitude people take regarding voting. If it is a special friend or old acquaintance who wants the vote, they vote and nothing will stop them, and we betide the man who challenges them. If they are a straight, laced party man, and the party has a candidate up they vote, regardless of the qualifications of the men, and so it goes. Some voters appreciate the chance to express their choice and come out and vote. Others wait for someone to invite them to the polls, and others must be gone after and brought to the polls if they vote, and its votes and not speeches and promises that win an election.

At the bottom of it all, what is our real interest in the matter. Is it electing the party of our choice, or is it electing a party that spells progress and advancement for Canada, our Canada. We maintain that the welfare of our Dominion is the paramount concern of every well-informed Canadian. If this be the case, then we say, every one entitled to a vote should vote. Don't wait to be hauled out, don't wait to be persuaded, but go to the polls and demand your rights.

If you fail to do this you are falling down in your duties as a citizen. And to those who labor to get voters out. Of course you want the man of your choice elected, but we dare say that either of the candidates would rather be defeated by a really representative vote, than to slide into office by the small vote of the few.

Get Out and Vote on Monday. It is an Opportunity.

FATHERS AND SONS' OUTING

Fathers and Sons' Outings have now become enjoyable, yearly events for thousands of boys and their fathers. They look forward to the great day and thrill at the first announcement. If such an event were not promoted as a community-wide occasion, many boys would be denied opportunity to get out under the open sky, and many fathers, lacking the impetus to undertake such a project of their own, would remain the entire vacation time at their daily grind of work.

So we promote Fathers and Sons' Outings.

Some fathers and sons are always going out. They are taking hikes, and automobile rides to the fishing streams and the mountain retreats. But there are other fathers and sons in every community who need the stimulus of an occasion to stir them to the values of going together. This group needs the annual day. The other group does not need the occasion so much, but (and naturally enough) they are generally the first to respond with enthusiasm to the invitation to go with the crowd.

"I must go out to the hills again, To the lone hills and the sky; And all I ask is a few friends And my own boy standing by. And the bracing air and the song of the breeze And the aspen branches shaking And the gray mist fading out of the east And the gray dawn breaking."

Another value of the outings comes from the companionship of fathers as they visit together. On such outings many community problems have received invaluable consideration and attention, and resolutions have formed in the minds of neighbors, while away for awhile, which have resulted in community benefits.

Under the open sky there isn't the strained feeling of committee meetings, but rather with minds free and attitudes friendly the happy imaginative contemplation produced by the mountain atmosphere stimulates men's minds to think of lofty things. Big ideas come from wholesome, clean free thought.

And, while it is going on, the sons are playing together, talking and dreaming of things they hope to accomplish when their big day of leadership comes. A Fathers and Sons' Outing is a great occasion. Kindling the evening camp fire not only creates a light which illuminates the faces of the group who sit with hearts centered toward a common objective, but deeper reflectors radiate a spiritual light of comradeship which illuminates the soul and makes of all a unit.

Fathers and Sons' Outings offer great opportunity for fellowship and companionship between father and son. The great out-of-doors is a natural setting in which this purpose may be best accomplished. While the period is very brief, lasting from three to ten days, yet because of the close relationships which it brings—in sleeping, hiking, playing, fishing enjoying one another—great opportunities are offered for the formation of lasting friendship.

News Notes

Oliver McLean was a Lethbridge visitor on Monday of this week.

Taber beat New Dayton in the first round of the District Baseball playoffs last week.

T. L. Halpin is away on his holidays spending most of his time at Waterton. W. H. Gaetz is in charge at the bank during his absence.

How did you like the rain? It soaked down about nine inches on sod and will make everything grow exceptionally well.

Despite the storm on Saturday, the dance at the Opera House was fairly well attended and a good time is reported by all present.

Work is progressing nicely on the new Town Hall and the building is making a very imposing site indeed. Brick laying is up about 5 feet all around and the frames for outside doors and windows are all in.

"DISRAELI" FINEST OF TALKING PICTURES

At the Capitol Theatre, Warner Bros. presents George Arliss in "Disraeli," a Vitaphone all-talking production Directed by Al Green. Adapted to screen by Julian Josephson. Supporting cast includes Florence Arliss, Joan Bennett, Anthony Bushell, Ivan Simpson, David Torrence and Doris Lloyd.

We doubt whether there will be another talking picture this season or many seasons to come that will equal "Disraeli," the Vitaphone version of the famous stage play, produced by Warner Brothers with George Arliss in the leading role. Mr. Arliss is a great actor. There is a power and subtlety to his interpretations that is amazing. To watch him is the role of Disraeli, the remarkable statesman who became Prime Minister of England, is to know the thrill of witnessing something that is powerfully dramatic.

It would be unfortunate to miss this really fine production. There are not many actors like Mr. Arliss and there are not many pictures like "Disraeli." It is an artistic achievement and Warner Bros. are to be congratulated for presenting to the screen public a film of such splendor and intelligence.

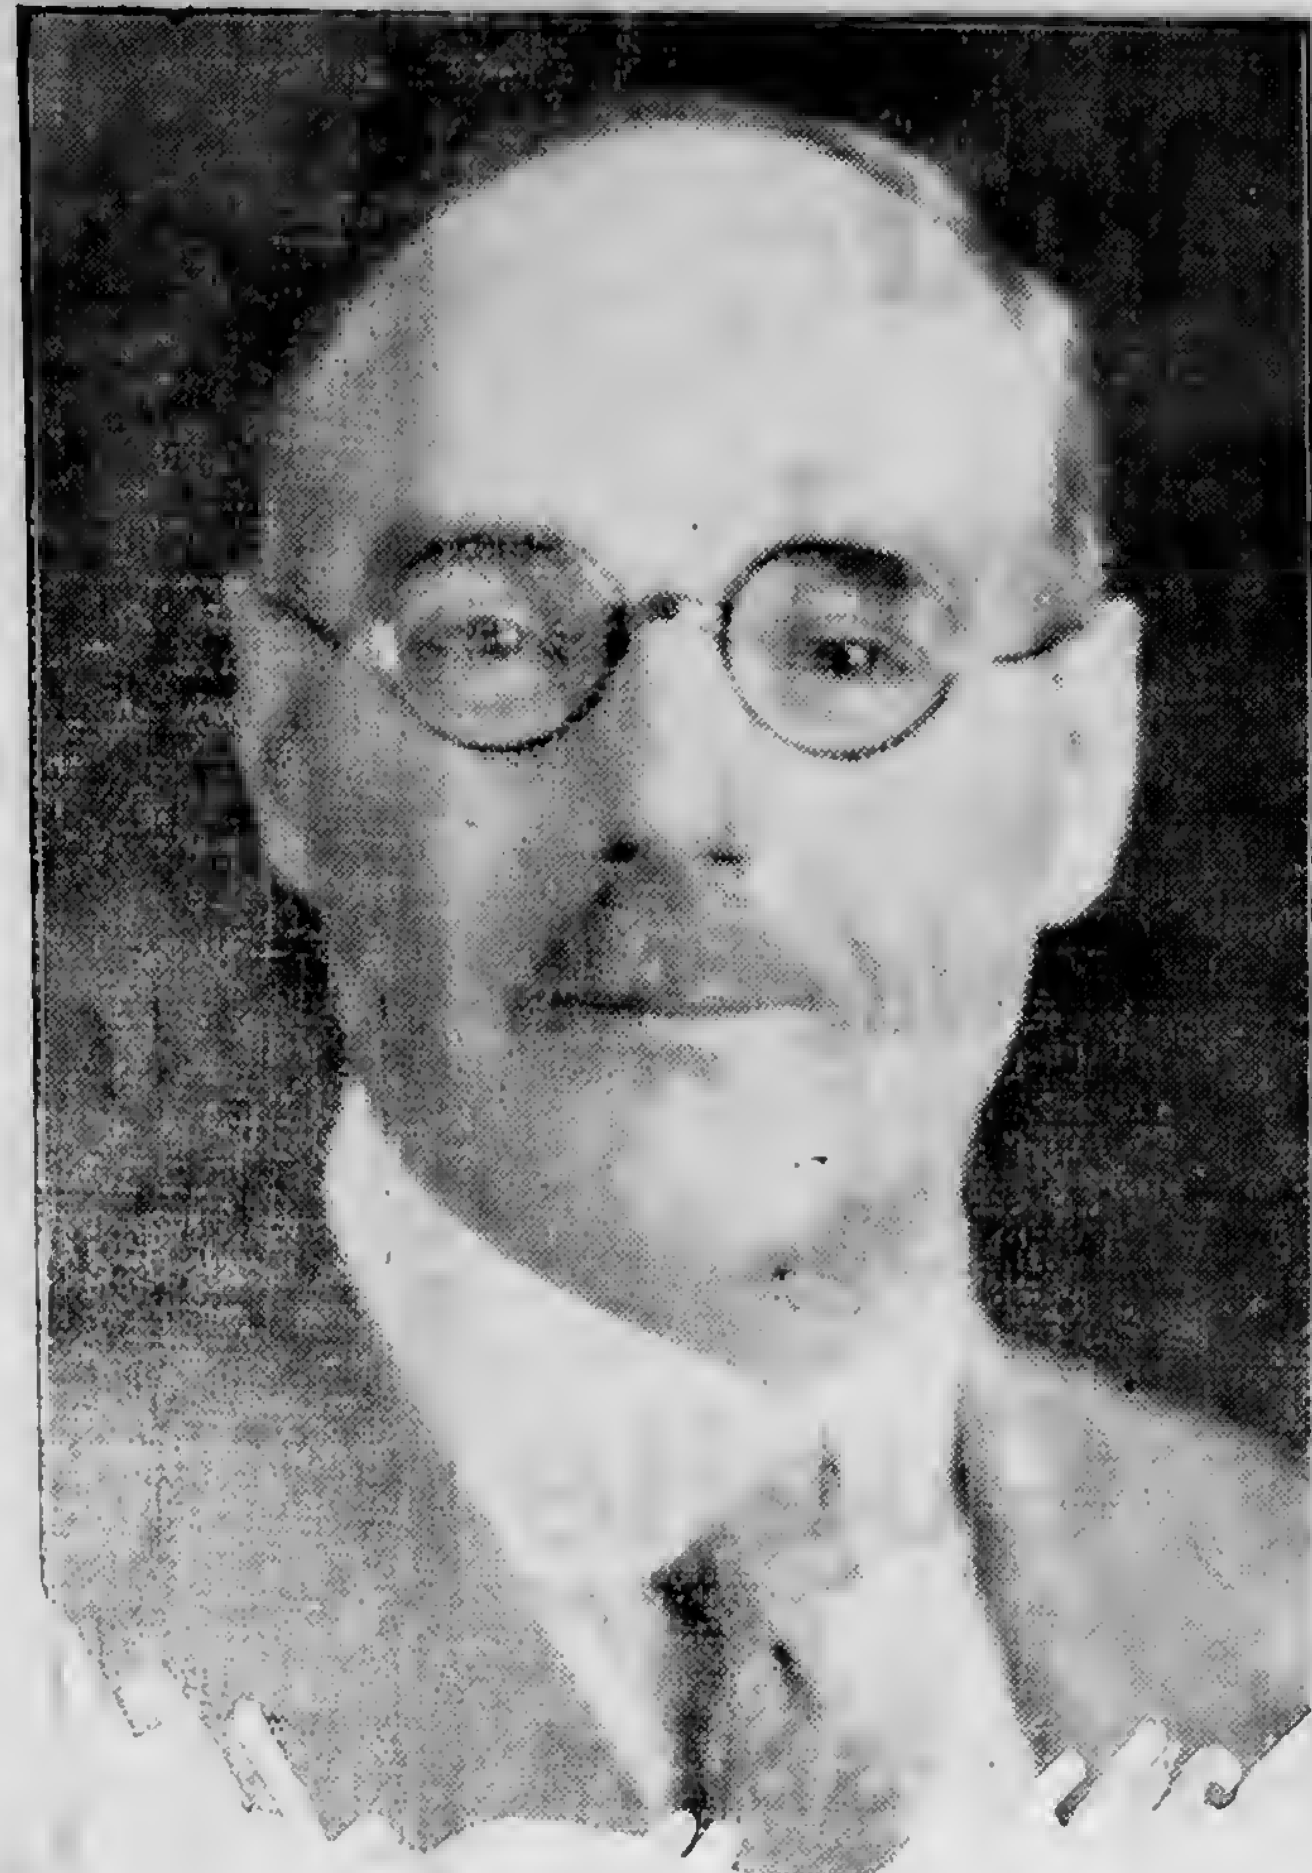

Posters announcing a memorial Day were placed around the business district the first of the week. Wednesday, July 30th has been set for the day. Lots at the cemetery are being leased up this week so everything will be in readiness. If your lot hasn't been put in shape for decorating have it done at once. The War Veterans will be putting on a special exercise at 2 p.m. to pay respect to their departed comrades. This is the first day of this nature to be held in Raymond for several years. Lets make it a success.

"BLUE RUIN"

Something should be done to the political Jeremiahs of Canada. This country is one of the most favored countries in the world. It has enjoyed a period of prosperity during the past five years or six years such as it never experienced before and such as few other people have known. Leading bankers, industrialists, as well as railway presidents, have publicly testified to this fact, an indisputable fact. Yet from scores of platforms at this time there arise wails of the most pessimistic kind about the terrible economic state of Canada. Word pictures are painted by spell-binders that cannot but leave the impression on the minds of uninformed people that Canada is surely heading toward the scrap heap of nations and rapidly approaching bankruptcy and decline. If these things were true, which they are not, the part of patriotism would not be to proclaim the fact from the house-tops but to soberly face the situation and bring forth remedies for the condition that would not be predicted on turning one set of politicians out and putting another set of politicians in.

There is undoubtedly much business depression at this time. There is a good deal of unemployment. But this is also true of most countries. The New York Times, that most re-

A. G. BAALIM

When the King Government is returned victorious on July 28, see that Lethbridge riding sends a man to Ottawa who will have the ear of the Government.

Lethbridge Constituency is still looking to Ottawa for many developments:

Interior storage elevator will be built for handling the 1930 crop.

Air mail from Winnipeg to Vancouver through Medicine Hat, Taber, Lethbridge and the Crow's Nest Pass.

Coal subvention to aid in marketing Lethbridge coal in Manitoba.

Development of Waterton Lakes National Park and Southern Alberta's tourist attractions.

Federal Highway.

Development of Southern Alberta's beet sugar industry.

PREMIER BROWNLEE BEFORE THE LAST PROVINCIAL ELECTION, APPEALED TO ALBERTANS TO SEND STRONG SUPPORT TO EDMONTON SO THAT THE GOVERNMENT WOULD NOT BE FORCED TO DEPEND UPON MINORITY GROUPS. THE SAME ADVICE HOLDS TRUE, TODAY. WHY SEND A MEMBER TO OTTAWA MERELY TO SIT ON THE SIDELINES?

THE TORIES OF EASTERN CANADA WHO DOMINATE THAT PARTY, DECLARE THAT THE DUNNING BUDGET IS FRAMED SOLELY TO SELL THE WHEAT CROP OF THE WESTERN FARMER, AND DEMAND THAT HIGHER PROTECTION BE GRANTED EASTERN FACTORIES. THE TORIES BELITTLE THE WESTERN FARMER.

THERE CAN BE NO SUCCESSFUL MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY IN CANADA UNLESS CANADA CAN SELL ITS WHEAT CROP. THE DUNNING BUDGET IS THE BEST WHEAT SALESMAN CANADA CAN FIND TODAY.

liable newspaper, reported a few days ago the result of an official investigation of unemployment in New York City which showed around 300,000 unemployed workers in New York City. If that condition represents the United States generally, and it would appear to do so, then there must be nearly 5,000,000 people unemployed in the Republic. There are some authorities who declare the U. S. unemployment figures to greatly exceed that estimate. Great Britain has 2,000,000 persons out of work with little hope of any improvement in that situation for some time to come. So that Canada is not only no worse off than two of her fellow Anglo-Saxon nations but better off.

It would be more honest and infinitely more patriotic if the political preachers of "Blue Ruin" in Canada would recognize the facts of world depression rather than try to make political capital out of the economic situation of their country. The constant reiteration of their doleful lamentations about the state of Canada can have only one result. People will come to believe their pessimistic statements, and once the mass mind is impregnated with such misleading propaganda to the extent of believing it, the condition these false prophets predict may be brought to existence. Our people will lose faith in themselves and in Canada. Then they will lose heart and the country may suffer so much that it will take years to recover our lost standing. It matters not what political colors fly from Parliament Hill but it does matter that Canada shall no entrust her destinies to men who are ever ready to defence their country for the sake of political advantage and who picture the world as in the last stages of decrepitude. As the whole world well knows, this Canadian of ours is amongst the most prosperous of all countries, both actually and potentially, and offers bigger and better opportunities than virtually any country in the world. Let there be an end to this foolery.

ARE WOMEN GOOD SPORTS?

By EVELYN ROBB

The highest praise one man can give another is to say that he is a good sport, but ask this same man if this term can be applied to women and he will probably tell you that women do not even know what good sportmanship is. This always seems to me highly unfair, for as far as I can see women are just as good sports as men. Take for instance the woman who has made a name for herself in the athletic world; Helen Wills, who has always been a quiet winner and a smiling loser; Amelia Earhart who flew the Atlantic and then came home and settled down as though she had done nothing out of the way at all; Amy Johnson who flew to Australia in order to prove that she was capable of handling a plane. There are dozens of other women I could name who have done outstanding things and who take it all as a matter of course and who if they fail, take their defeat smilingly.

The one outstanding case of lack of good sportmanship in a woman is Suzanne Lenglen who defaulted rather than be beaten by Mrs. Mallory when the French and American champions were playing for the world's tennis title and who on another occasion burst into tears when she was defeated. The way in which Mlle Lenglen immediately lost her popularity with both men and women proves that women do understand the meaning of good sportmanship and appreciate this quality in others.

It is not only in the athletic world that women have proved their right to be called good sports. In the business and professional worlds they have had to fight every step of the way to gain recognition. Their jobs have been by no means easy. They have had to surmount the male prejudice against women in business and they have done so successfully. They have done the work of men for half the salary but they have not complained at the injustice. Quietly they have fought to gain a place for themselves and now that they have proved their ability they are just as quiet and inoffensive as before. What is this but sportmanship?

The woman in the home does not usually receive much recognition for her labours. She works hard and her hours are long yet she complains little. Often she has a hard time to make ends meet but you seldom hear her complain. She does her work. Cares for her family and gets along as well as she can on what little money she has and thinks nothing of it. Women don't consciously say to themselves "I'm going to be a good sports." But the majority of women unconsciously live up to the male interpretation of the term "good sportsmanship" the ability to win quietly, lose smilingly, obey the rules of the game and give the other fellow an even break.

BANK OF MONTREAL CROP REPORT OF JULY 17th, 1930

GENERAL.—Intense heat throughout the Prairie Provinces has caused rapid growth. Crops in Manitoba and Northern Saskatchewan are making satisfactory progress under ideal conditions, but parts of Southern Saskatchewan and most areas in Alberta urgently need rains as the crop is in a crucial stage. In Quebec crops are generally satisfactory, except on low-lying lands. Rain has interfered with haying operations and warm dry weather is needed. In Ontario conditions continue favorable and crops generally are making good progress. In the Maritimes growth generally is satisfactory. In British Columbia the weather has been hot and crops are maturing rapidly. Details follow:—

PRAIRIE PROVINCES

ALBERTA. Northeastern Area:—Showers followed by warm weather, have promoted rapid growth and indications are for fair crops. Some hail damage has been reported. Southeastern Area:—Conditions are only fair and more rain will be needed shortly. Western Area:—Local showers have been beneficial, and growth is rapid, but rain is needed over the whole area. SASKATCHEWAN.

Northern Area:—Ideal growing weather prevails, with sufficient moisture. Present indications are for average maturity with a good average yield. Hail damage has been in scattered sections only. Coarse grain is now well advanced. Southern Area. Crops are poor on stubble and breaking, and fair on summerfallow. There is sufficient temporary moisture, but the heat is intense and rain would be welcome. There have been scattered hail losses. Manitoba. All crops continue to make favourable progress. Wheat shows a vigorous uniform stand, and is practically all headed out and prospects are encouraging. Coarse grains show satisfactory promise. Crops lodged by high winds and heavy rains are making remarkable recovery.

Mrs. A. My husband certainly enjoys smoking in his den. Has your husband a den?

Mrs. B. "No he growls all over the house."
